Fruit Crop Damage May Boost Prices

ETNA, Ohio (AP) — Freezing temperatures that destroyed a portion of the fruit crop in Ohio may help some fruit farmers.

Frost killed about one-third of the apple and two-thirds of the peaches and plums at Lynd Fruit Farm in this Licking County community. But Mitchell Lynd who operates the farm with his family agrees with agriculture specialists who say that farmers could get a higher price for their remaining produce.

"If the supply goes down, the price goes up and sometimes you come out ahead," Lynd said. "But then certain areas get wiped out completely and those people don't benefit at all."

"Talking to other people with regard to Ohio, there's very little damage, especially in the northern part of the state, where most of the apples are grown," Lynd said.

Dr. Gene Cravens, agricultural economist at Ohio State, said damage to the state's fruit crop was moderate. He said damage to other crops, like wheat and corn, was minimal.

"Some fruit farmers are going to be in serious financial difficulty," Cravens said. "But the ones that still have apples are going to be better off than they would have been otherwise."

Hardest hit at Lynd's farm was the Red Delicious variety, the major eating apple grown in the state.

"If a guy grew only Red Delicious, I'd say he'd be in big trouble," Lynd said. But he said in the portions of southeastern Ohio and Pennsylvania most seriously affected by late frost, farmers grow varieties like Rome apples, used in baking, which develop later and are considered more hearty.

Some fruit farmers are seeking federal disaster aid because of scattered frost damage, especially in southern Ohio.

Roy Zimmerman, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, said the damage in some areas approached 90 per cent of the crop. He said disaster requests probably would not be widespread. "But it certainly won't be the bumper crop that it was last year," Zimmerman said.

Fatal Accident At Duvall Crossroads Still Probed

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Dan Dewey is still attempting to determine the cause of a two-car accident 7:35 a.m. Wednesday that killed an Ashville area woman and injured four other people.

The woman has been identified as 43-year-old Mildred C. McCotter, Route 1, Ashville, who was declared dead on arrival at the Rickenbacker Air Force Base Hospital. Medical personnel said she died of massive internal injuries.

Deputy Dewey said Mrs. McCotter was westbound on the Duvall Road, approaching the intersection of the Ashville Pike. The other car, driven by Gary Branham, 18, Route 1, Ashville, was northbound on the Ashville Pike. From the investigation and the statements of witnesses, Mrs. McCotter apparently stopped at the stop sign, and pulled her car into the middle of the intersection.

The vehicle apparently stopped, blocking both lanes of travel. Her car was hit almost immediately by Branham, Deputy Dewey said.

Each vehicle continued in a northwesterly direction after impact and both cars, which were demolished, came to rest in a field.

Branham was treated at Rickenbacker Hospital for shock and a passenger, Paul Zamolski, 24, Route 3, Circleville, was treated for a minor head injury. Both were later released.

Two other passengers in Branham's car were given emergency care at the base hospital and then admitted to Mt. Carmel East Hospital, Columbus, for further treatment. Both are listed in bad condition.

They are Lloyd Langevin, 19, Jefferson Square Apartments, Ashville, who is being treated for facial lacerations, a possible concussion, and a spine injury, and Raymond Petti, 19, Rickenbacker Air Force Base, who is being treated for a fractured left leg, head injuries, and a possible concussion.

Claim Firm Exported Electronics To Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Bay Area firm has been charged with illegally exporting $3 million in sophisticated electronics manufacturing equipment to the Soviet Union in what may be the start of a federal crackdown on such transactions.

The federal indictment returned Wednesday against I.I. Industries Inc. paints a cloak-and-dagger picture of fictitious firms, mysterious foreign "middlemen" and complex equipment disguised as washing machines and ovens to avoid detection by customs authorities.

It alleges that the Sunnyvale, Calif., firm, three of its officers and three West German nationals violated U.S. law forbidding exportation to Communist bloc countries of any goods which will "significantly increase ... present or potential military capability."

Asst. U.S. Atty. James H. Daffer said the equipment in question is used to make semiconductors, electronic devices which could be used in guidance systems for missiles. He added, however, that authorities did not know what use was made of the equipment by the Communists.

The indictment names Gerald R. Starek, president of I.I.; Carl E. Storey, vice president for sales; and Patrick O'Conner, the comptroller. Also indicted were Richard Mueller, Friedrich Linnhoff and Volker Nast, all West Germans now out of the United States.

The indictment charges the defendants conspired to export the prohibited goods to the Soviet Union between April 1, 1975, and last Jan. 17.

Company officials had no comment on the charges.

According to the indictment, the equipment was sent to Russia through a convoluted international path that included sales to phony firms in the United States, Canada, Switzerland and West Germany.

On Dec. 3, the grand jury charged,

Ask 'Modest' $20 Million For Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is recommending "a modest" $20 million for relief aid in Lebanon as the start of an American reconstruction program that could reach several hundred million dollars.

The initial $20 million would actually go to the United Nations for use in a $50-million relief and refugee aid plan prepared by U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim.

The American share is now being considered by the White House Office of Management and Budget and should be sent to Congress in the next few weeks.

There appears to be no opposition in either the House or Senate to the $20-million figure, but the status of a longer-range, more expensive aid measure is not so clear.

State Department officials say a major reconstruction program is still in the formative stages, although Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a Senate panel earlier this month the need for American financial help in Lebanon will be extensive when the civil war there is ended.

The $20 million "would certainly be a modest start," one State Department source said.

Firm figures have not been set, but some U.S. officials talk in terms of several hundred million dollars to help repair the damage of more than a year of severe fighting.

Administration officials see congressional objections to this overall plan, but mostly in terms of fiscal restraint rather than opposition to the concept of Lebanese aid.

To overcome that anticipated problem, Kissinger is said to be considering an international consortium in which several nations would contribute.

U.S. officials say the long-range program is very tentative and depends first of all on a workable cease-fire and some stable political settlement.

There would also have to be signs that the new Lebanese government would remain essentially neutral in the general Arab-Israeli confrontation.

Finally, the officials say, the United States would demand that the international aid group include definite membership by the oil-rich Arab nations.

Weather

Fair and warmer today with a high in the mid 60s. Low tonight, mid 30s. Partly cloudy and continued warm Friday with a slight chance of showers. High Wednesday, 56; low, 33.

I.I. Industries shipped equipment to Allen Electronics in Overland Park, Kan., where it was picked up by Linnhoff, also known as Paul Allen. He then allegedly delivered it "falsely invoiced as commercial washing machines and industrial ovens" to an exporter.

Daffer said the California firm also made shipments to two fictitious firms in Montreal — Semitronic Ltd. and USA Trade — which consigned the goods to a customs freight forwarder. He in turn sent the merchandise on to West Germany or Switzerland.

Once in Europe, Daffer said, the equipment was transhipped to the Soviet Union. He did not elaborate further on this aspect of the case.

Mueller was identified as an employee of Semitronic of Switzerland, a firm which received several instruction manuals for the equipment. Linnhoff was identified only as a former Luftwaffe pilot and Nast as connected with a Hamburg firm called Reimer-Klimatronic.

Exporting such equipment is punishable by a fine not more than five times the value of the goods involved, or $20,000, whichever is greater. Violators also face a maximum prison sentence of five years.

Hospital Board Discusses Open House For New Wing

By SUE BOYER
Herald Staff Writer

Berger Hospital's upcoming open house was one of the main topics discussed Wednesday night when the hospital's board of governors met in regular session. The hospital will be open for public tours 1-4 p.m. this Sunday and next Sunday.

Among the items the board thought should be pointed out on the tours is the plaque which commemorates those donors who have contributed $500 or more to the hospital building fund.

In routine action, the board approved the financial statement for March and noted that the cash was up $70,000 and that the accounts receivable were down somewhat. Charles Rideout, administrator of Berger, also pointed out that the expenses for the year are running below budget.

Also on the financial picture was a

Abortion Foe Plans New Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The author of a proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw all abortions says he's undaunted by the Senate's rejection of the proposal and will be back in a few weeks with a new one.

Claiming "this is only the beginning," Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said he'll seek Senate action on a less restrictive version that would permit abortions if continuing a pregnancy would endanger the life of the mother.

However, the Senate's 47 to 40 vote Wednesday against considering Helms' first version of the proposed amendment was generally viewed as a setback to antiabortion groups pressing for congressional action.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who led the battle to table the proposal, claimed Congress should support the landmark 1973 Supreme Court decision invalidating some state antiabortion laws.

Bayh said the judiciary subcommittee he chairs had held 16 days of hearings on Helms' plan and similar proposals, deciding last September against recommending any of them.

Helms' parliamentary maneuver to bring his proposal directly to a floor vote was depicted by Bayh as an attempt "to thwart the normal operations of the Senate."

reimbursement of $20,554 to Blue Cross and payment of construction and equipment bills in the total amount of $65,523.32. Rideout reported that with the payment of the current construction bills, the board still owes approximately $35,000 but he noted that all the work was not completed at this time. The board had originally agreed to withhold a certain portion of the total amount as a security that the job would be completed satisfactorily.

A change order was approved as recommended by the architect which involved a heating element in the connecting corridor. The cost is to be shared by the hospital and the engineer with the hospital paying $362 of the $1,053.67 bill and the engineer paying the rest which would amount to the inflationary figure since the time the original plans were made.

Henry Schroeder, chairman of the building committee, also discussed with the board the need for a screen between the hospital property and the neighboring properties on the east. The board forwarded the item to the building committee for action.

A bill in the amount of $677.80 was presented and approved for the donors' plaque in the new wing.

Rideout presented the board with a proposal from the Paint Valley Mental Health Clinic to use a room upstairs in the old building for a drug abuse program. A person would be available three days a week at no cost to the hospital for drug referrals from the medical staff. There were no objections raised from either the board or the medical staff and the program was therefore authorized.

A brief discussion was held on a law coming before the state legislature which would regulate the expansion of the hospital and its future change in service to the community. Rideout said a one-day institute is scheduled in Columbus on May 10 regarding the new legislation. He indicated he was going to attend and invited any of the board members to attend with him.

The administrator also reported a cut of 35 per cent in medicare and medicaid payments. The new rules also ask for documentation of illnesses and a proposed length of stay in the hospital. Rideout briefed the board on the other medicare regulations which

Probers Seeking Air Crash Cause

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, Virgin Islands (AP) — Federal investigators say they expect to spend 10 days to two weeks examining the wreckage of the American Airlines jetliner that crashed as it was landing in the capital of the Virgin Islands two days ago.

"What we're trying to do is to look into the plane's structure and the power plants," said Edward Dreifus, heading the investigation for the National Transportation Safety Board.

"We are not trying to analyze the evidence in St. Thomas. We're sending our information to Washington where a three-man team has been assembled to do that."

Dreifus said the flight recorder from the cockpit of the plane had been found but that the voice recorder had not been located yet.

He said the Federal Aviation Administration, American Airlines, the Airline Pilots' Association and Boeing, the builder of the plane, were assisting in the investigation.

There was no indication, however, when the investigators would interview the pilot, Arthur Bujnowski of Huntington, N.Y., and his first officer and flight engineer. All escaped with minor injuries.

Witnesses to the crash said the Boeing 727 jet from New York overshot the landing mark, crashed through a link fence at the end of the runway and broke up in flames in the service area of a filling station across the road from the airport.

The pilots' association contends that the airport's 4,650-foot main runway is too short for big jets. But Michael T. Fenn, the FAA's area manager, said his agency considers the airport safe.

"It's either safe or unsafe, and the FAA has found it safe," he said.

The plane carried 81 passengers and seven crew members. The transportation safety board announced Wednesday night that 35 bodies had been recovered and that three persons were missing. Twenty of the survivors were hospitalized.

Inflation Is A Thief

Unlike taxes or other bites taken directly from an individual's labors, inflation's effects are not always so obvious. That inflation does effectively eat away at earnings and savings is demonstrated by a study by The Conference Board of relative purchasing power.

A family of four which earned $10,000 in pretax income in 1960 today needs an income of $19,000 just to maintain the same living standard, according to the study. The broad expanse of higher prices grouped under "inflation" are only part of the explanation. Higher income taxes and soaring Social Security taxes also take an increased bite.

Inflation, however, is responsible for about two-thirds of the lost earning power. Similar effects were noted on other income levels. A family earning $5,000 in 1960 today needs $9,600 to remain even. An income of more than $49,000 would be required today to maintain the same living standards $25,000 brought a family 16 years ago.

What studies such as this one demonstrate vividly is the fallacy of the argument that a "little" inflation is good for the economy. The definition of what is "little" changes according to the whims of those who hold this view. Any influence which robs an individual's purchasing power is not good for this economy, or any other.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, April 29, the 120th day of 1976. There are 246 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1945, in World War II, American soldiers fighting in Germany liberated 32,000 Nazi victims at the Dachau concentration camp.

On this date:

In 1862, New Orleans fell to Union forces during the Civil War.

In 1894, a band of jobless men known as Jacob Coxey's Army swarmed into Washington to seek relief from Congress.

In 1946, 28 former Japanese leaders were indicted in Tokyo as war criminals.

In 1965, Australia decided to send troops to South Vietnam to assist in the struggle against the Communists.

Ten years ago: U.N. Secretary-General U Thant declared that the war in Vietnam had gone from bad to worse and was becoming more and more complex.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon told a news conference a residual force of U.S. troops would remain in South Vietnam indefinitely if North Vietnam refused to release American prisoners of war.

One year ago: The United States and Greece announced the termination of a home-port arrangement for U.S. naval ships at a port near Athens and the closing of the American air base at the Athens airport.

Today's birthdays: Emperor Hirohito of Japan is 75. Poet Rod McKuen is 43.

Thought for today: To live is the rarest thing in the world. Most people exist, that is all — Oscar Wilde, Irish writer, 1854-1900.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, The Massachusetts Legislature resolved that the colony adopt a flag with a white background, a green pine tree and the inscription: "Appeal To Heaven."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can doctors tell by examination if there is a vitamin deficiency? Can they also tell the kind of vitamin that is missing?

Miss B. J. J., Mich.

Dear Miss J.:

The recognition, the diagnosis and the treatment for all kinds of nutritional deficiencies are extremely difficult.

Very severe evidence of malnutrition shows signs that are picked up during a routine examination. When this is suspected, a look at the diet will usually reveal inadequate food and vitamin intake.

It should be understood that, under some circumstances, even an adequate diet may still result in a nutritional deficiency. For example, longterm use of the antibiotics, chronic diarrhea, and disorders of absorption and assimilation of food may be responsible for vitamin and other deficiencies even with an excellent diet.

There is a wide variety of symptoms that are specific to certain vitamin deficiencies. In children, the presence of rickets and changes in the bone indicate a vitamin D deficiency.

Unexplained eye changes, dryness of the skin and night blindness are characteristic of a lack of sufficient vitamin A.

Many of the symptoms of specific vitamin deficiencies may overlap. Consequently, the doctor may not by examination alone be able to pinpoint the specific vitamin that is deficient.

When he suspects such an inadequate vitamin content, complex blood studies are performed to determine the level of vitamins in the blood.

If a deficiency is present there are, in most instances, ways to replenish the missing vitamin.

I have a number of moles on my face, neck and chest. I read somewhere that these can be dangerous. Is there any way that I can tell if they are cancerous without going to a doctor?

Mrs. M. L., La.

Dear Mrs. L.:

The differentiation of benign (non-cancerous) and malignant (cancerous) moles, tumors and sores on the face is a highly technical one. In fact, most physicians prefer to have these examined by skin specialists who can best evaluate them.

Changes in the size and character of a mole have important meaning. When any suspicion arises, these moles are removed surgically and carefully examined under the microscope for the presence of significant cells.

Obviously, none of this can be done by you. Even more obvious is the injustice you are doing yourself by avoiding a doctor's examination.

You are paying an enormous emotional penalty because of your inability to confront this problem in a mature manner. You will be gratified if you follow my advice and discuss this with your doctor.

NEW YORK — Beginning September 1st, the majority of us 215 million Americans will be standing in line, waiting to get a real shot in the arm — the free immunization against next winter's threatened Swine Flu pandemic. (A pandemic is an epidemic that spreads over a wide geographic area.)

The biggest inoculation effort in U.S. history (labeled Mission Mass Inoculation U.S.A.) will cost $135 million, and will cause noisy ouches and grouches throughout the land.

Since it is well-known that most people have an inherent dislike, bordering on paranoia, when faced with needles — the problems confronted by the Federal government's Center for Disease Control are compounded. First, they have to get sufficient vaccine to go around. Then they have to distribute it to areas and train personnel to administer it. Then comes the worst challenge of all... seeing that more than 200 million arms are swabbed and vaccinated within a tight 90-day period from September through November...

There will be no time for the human injectors to soothe screaming children or revive swooning adults as they stand in line awaiting what they fear will be the unkindest cut of all.

"It can be done," says Don Stenhouse, public health advisor for CDC's immunization division in Atlanta. "We anticipate that 60 to 70 per cent of the inoculations will be done with jet injectors instead of needles and syringes." And since "jet injectors" are generally less painful than needles, and are unknown to most Americans, the operation should proceed less traumatically than might be expected.

"Jet immunization injectors" are capable of inoculating 600 to 900 people per hour, as compared with fewer than 200 an hour by disposable needle and syringe.

What are jet immunization injectors?

There is more than one type, but all are similar in appearance. They look like small guns with a tiny nozzle on the business end. When the nozzle is pressed against a human arm and the gun "shot," vaccine is instantly forced through tiny jets in the nozzle through the skin, penetrating to a suitable depth.

"The operation is so quick — four-tenths of a second for a 1-cc shot — that seven out of 10 people feel nothing at all," claims Benjamin Kittner, president of a company which makes a Ped-O-Jet immunizer. "There is no danger of infection, since no needles are involved. There is no danger of hitting an artery or vein, or of having a needle break because a patient is squirming."

The only time jet injectors can cause discomfort is when occasionally the vaccine hits a nerve ending — "in which case you could feel a burning, but not for long."

Stenhouse says the jet injectors, which have been used in mass immunization programs in other lands but rarely in the U.S. except for army programs, will find their "perfect use" in the Swine Flu prevention program. "Speed is vital here," he says.

The new vaccine, itself, is being tested now. Health authorities are studying its possible side effects, and will decide later at what minimum age Americans should be encouraged to receive free inoculations. Some vaccines are too strong for young children. This may turn out to be one of them. After all, any vaccine that could prevent "Swine Fever" — a rugged flu strain that killed 20 million persons in 1918-19 — may need to be potent to be effective.

Stenhouse says the CDC has no idea of how many Americans will elect to take the vaccine prevention injections: "We can't force them, but the program

NEW YORK (AP) — If the following items don't help you hold onto the money in your pocket they'll at least explain where some of it is going, and what some of your neighbors are doing about it.

Item One — Many people are opening up Individual Retirement Accounts that enable them to save or invest for their retirements up to $1,500 a year. Those eligible are workers not covered by existing pension plans.

In an effort to attract these savings, many banks have advertised the amount of tax-free savings an individual can accumulate in a certain number of years at a specific interest rate. The totals are always impressive.

However, most of these projections are made on the basis of today's interest rates — which by historical standards are unusually high — continuing for 20 or 30 years into the future. Nice if it happens, but it probably won't.

"A prediction is not a guarantee," cautions the Federal Trade Commission in a new advisory from its Bureau of Consumer protection.

"Know if there are any risks that would affect the value or safety of the funds you place in your account. Know what interest rate is actually guaranteed and not just hope for it."

Critics claim it took the FTC too long to act, and that some people already are enrolled in such plans without really understanding that the amounts they think they'll get might fall far short of what they receive actually.

Item Two — While many economic indicators show a progressively stronger economy, "one noticeable dawdler," says the First National City Bank, is the level of real spendable earnings — after-tax earnings, that is.

"Even though the real spendable earnings series is now 4.5 per cent above the April 1975 trough, it is still 6.4 per cent below the peak it established in October 1972," it observes.

Most of the improvement, the bank says, occurred in May 1975, when the federal government lowered withholding tax rates.

"Since then the level of real spendable earnings has zigzagged, and currently is virtually the same as it was last May."

Item Three — For the past two months the stock market, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average, has moved within a rather narrow range of 60 points or so, despite many forecasts that it would move higher.

One reason given for the inability of the market to break through to higher ground is the attitude of professional investors and the institutions, and recent mutual fund figures underscore that attitude.

During March, says the Investment Company Institute, of which most large funds are members, the industry was a net seller of portfolio securities.

Total purchases, it said, were $1.44 billion, while sales totaled $1.58 billion.

The pressure to sell probably was put on the funds by their own investors, most of whom qualify as that species commonly referred to as "the small investor."

These small investors sold a greater value of fund shares than they purchased, forcing some funds to liquidate their own holdings in order to raise cash to pay them.

Item Four — The American homebuyer borrowed money in 1975 at a rate lower than that paid by the typical corporation, the U.S. League of Savings Associations notes.

The conventional mortgage rate on new single-family home mortgages dropped below 9 per cent at the beginning of 1975, and the slight, fractional drops thereafter brought it below the very best corporate bond rates.

Fireman Wins New Hearing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court today ordered the Athens County Common Pleas Court to hold a hearing on a former Athens city fireman's contention that he was wrongfully fired.

The court said in a unanimous decision that Allen Dvorak, who was fired in 1974 at the completion of a year's probationary term, was entitled to argue his case.

The county court had given summary judgment to the city without hearing Dvorak's arguments. Dvorak appealed that decision.

Dvorak was hired on April 1, 1973, and fired by letter dated April 2, 1974. He claims in his appeal that the firing was not during the probationary year.

Bill Curbs Bids At Base Annexation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Dayton area's delegation prevailed Wednesday as the House voted 66-26 to end a proliferation of court fights in which surrounding townships and communities are seeking to annex parts of the 8,000-acre Wright Patterson Air Force Base.

Rep. John M. Scott, R-63 Fairborn, seeking to preserve what he said was already existing agreement between the base and Beavercreek Township, indicated he didn't believe assertions by sponsors of the pending legislation that the agreement would be preserved.

He offered an unsuccessful amendment that would have precluded the bill, which lets the federal government make annexation decisions regarding the facility, from cancelling out the agreement. He said it was about 12 years in the making.

While Scott lost in his bid to defeat the legislation, his arguments apparently were effective enough to strip the bill of its immediately effective emergency clause. It was converted into a regular 90-day measure when it fell two votes short of the two-thirds majority needed for emergency legislation.

Reps. C. J. McLin Jr., D-37 Dayton, and Paul R. Leonard, D-37 Dayton, attempted to make the case that the annexation controversies were detracting from the economic advantages of having the base which straddles the Greene-Montgomery County line. With 26,000 employees all told, McLin said Wright Patterson is Ohio's "biggest one site employer."

But the veteran Montgomery County lawmaker said the array of controversies threatened fragmentation of the base, and he said unless the bill is passed "congressmen from other states are going to start sniping to get parts of it away from us."

Scott, in effect, disputed McLin's claim that local governments in the area wanted to claim new territory "to keep from having to raise their income taxes." The Fairborn lawmaker noted that the property is tax exempt, and that Greene County and its subdivisions had to pay for roadways and entrances along with other costs inherent in having it nearby.

Scott noted that 6,400 acres of the base are in Greene County, with only 1,400 in Montgomery. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Chilly Air Hangs On

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was chilly overnight again, over much of the nation. Freeze warnings were continued in northern lower Michigan and in the mountain sections of Maryland and Virginia. Drizzle and fog dampened the western portions of the great plains from South Dakota into northern Texas.

Thunder and locally heavy rains continued in Texas from the big bend region into northeast Texas. A few showers hit eastern South Dakota, eastern Nebraska and the western portions of Washington and Oregon. Some light snow and rain lingered in portions of southwest and south central Montana. There were also some showers in the lower Great Lakes region with rain over Tennessee and eastern Arkansas.

Fair night-time skies prevailed over much of the southeastern U.S., into the mid-Atlantic coast states and through the Ohio and upper Mississippi valleys and the upper Great Lakes region. It was also fair over the inter-mountain region and California. Elsewhere, there was considerable cloudiness.

Temperatures overnight ranged from 26 at Marquette, Mich., to 77 at Key West, Fla., and Corpus Christi, Tex.

Fear More Lebanese Violence

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanon's pro-Syrian Moslem party threatened today to take up arms against Kamal Jumblatt's leftist Moslems if they try to delay the presidential election Saturday.

"We shall prevent the left by force of arms from delaying the election of a new Lebanese president," said Assem Kansou, secretary-general of the Lebanese branch of the Baath Socialist party which rules Syria.

Jumblatt's leftist alliance charged on Wednesday that Syria would exert too much influence on the voting if the 99-member parliament met this weekend to choose Christian President Suleiman Franjeh's successor.

"It is imperative that the date be postponed until the pressure is removed so parliament can act freely," the leftists said.

Firemen Douse Blaze In Automobile

The Circleville Fire Department responded to a call at 4:24 p.m. Wednesday and extinguished a fire in a 1974 Ford LTD parked on Morris Road.

The fire, believed to have been caused by a short in the battery, caused minor damage to the car owned by Carol Garrett, 131 Griner Ave.

Fighting escalated during the night. Kansou charged the leftists were responsible. He said they were trying to "trigger off a full-scale new round of fighting to prevent the election session from taking place."

Police said at least 100 persons were killed and 129 wounded during the past 24 hours. But they said this was only a rough estimate. Since the civil war began in April 1975, more than 17,000 persons have been killed, according to conservative estimates.

Mortar and rocket duels in downtown Beirut continued during the morning. There were heavy artillery exchanges in neighboring mountain towns and in northern Lebanon.

Girl Scouts To Participate In Mock Disaster With DSA

Camp Ken Jockety in western Franklin County will be the scene of a mock disaster of May 1 at 2:00 p.m., as the Seal of Ohio Girl Scouts and Columbus and Franklin County Disaster Services Agency personnel demonstrate their program of Emergency Preparedness for Youth (EPY). This, the fifth such "disaster", will be a two bus collision.

The 65-80 "victims" are Senior and adult Scouts and others who have taken the Medical Self Help course at the DSA plus auxiliary police and firemen. The "victims" will be made up with moulages, realistic simulated injuries, to test the Cadette Scouts knowledge of first aid. Those administering first aid will be Cadette Girl Scouts who are completing the Challenge of Emergency Preparedness for Youth.

These 175 girls have completed 24 hours of first aid training which includes Red Cross basic first aid, medical self help and CPR (cardio pulmonary resuscitation).

This program has won three consecutive awards (1973-75) from the National Safety Council.

Other phases of the program include instruction in self-protection, home fire safety and safety tips for babysitters.

EPY is a program for Girl Scouts of all ages — from Brownies through Seniors. Senior Scouts work closely with the DSA and actually planned the emergency challenge being held on May 1. Senior girls are trained in rescue work, radio communication and clerical skills and are ready to assist the DSA in the event of a real emergency. After the mock disaster is over the Seniors will demonstrate several skills they've learned as part of the program.

Junior Girl Scouts receive six hours of training in elementary first aid, personal health, health aid, home health and safety and community safety.

Brownie Girl Scouts participate in the EPY program through activities designed to enhance a girl's understanding of traffic safety rules, fire safety, knife safety, tornado safety and simple first aid.

Rhodes Seeks Japanese Auto Plants

TOKYO (AP) — Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes was to meet today and Friday with top executives of leading Japanese auto firms to discuss possible expansion plans in the United States.

Rhodes and his state development director, James A. Duerk, were to confer today with officials of the Toyota Motor Co. in Nagoya and on Friday in Tokyo with executives of Nissan Motor Co., maker of Datsun, and Honda Motor Co.

The Ohio officials also planned to meet with several other Japanese manufacturers that sell products in the United States, including auto supply firms and electronics equipment manufacturers.

While in Nagoya, Rhodes and Duerk were to meet with Gov. Yoshiaki Nakaya of Aichi Province.

On Friday, the pair will be the guests of honor at a luncheon hosted by U.S. Ambassador James D. Hodgson at the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo.

Rhodes said Wednesday he and Duerk are here to promote the advantages of foreign expansion in Ohio.

"Like firms from other nations, the Japanese manufacturers are investigating the possibilities of establishing manufacturing operations in America," he said. "We are going to do everything we can to encourage them to locate in Ohio."

Duerk said he and Rhodes also are making preparations for an Ohio Trade Mission to Japan, Hong Kong, Singapore and Thailand sometime in September.

Rubber Talks Being Hurt By SUB Cutoff

CLEVELAND (AP) — Suspension of supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) by the tire industry to rubber workers laid off before a nationwide strike nine days ago threatened today to prolong the walkout.

Union and management negotiators agreed to meet again after union officials walked out of a meeting Wednesday in protest of the suspension of SUB to workers furloughed at a Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. plant that was closed down in New Castle, Ind.

United Rubber Workers President Peter Bommarito was scheduled to rejoin the talks after three days in Geneva, Switzerland, rallying international labor support for the strike.

His presence could spur movement in the talks which have made some progress on benefits such as hospitalization and insurance but remain stalled on the major issues of wages and a cost of living adjustment sought by the 60,000 workers who are striking Firestone, the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., B.F. Goodrich Co. and Uniroyal Inc., shutting down 47 plants in 21 states. The Big Four produce about 65 per cent of the tires in the United States.

Jake Miller, head of the union's negotiating team with Firestone which has been selected as the target company for an industrywide settlement, said the union recessed Wednesday's meeting an hour earlier than usual.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

In-Laws Entitled To 'Choose' Race

DEAR ABBY: I am a black woman married to a black man who has very light skin. Nearly everyone in his family is light-skinned, and their hair is thin, like Caucasians.

Some of my husband's relatives are trying to pass as Indians. They go around with their hair parted in the middle wearing headbands. They look ridiculous because the Indians around here don't wear headbands. They even put "Indian" on their drivers' licenses where it says "race."

When one of them gets married, they have a Catholic ceremony, and then at the reception they all sit around and smoke the "peace pipe."

My poor husband is so humiliated because everyone who knows about his relatives looks at him funny.

At first I thought these people did not want to be considered black because of the hard times minorities have in some places. But, Abby, Indians are more of a minority than blacks are!

I am not prejudiced against any minority. I just hate phony people. What is your opinion?

UPSET IN MARYLAND

DEAR UPSET: You can't pick your relatives, but you can pick your friends, and there is no law that forces you to be friendly with relatives you don't care for. And as for their "passing", if people want to pass, it's their business.

DEAR ABBY: I have two big, good-looking sons. One is 16 and the other is 18, and they've been fighting each other since they were old enough to swing their arms.

The 18-year-old just bought a car and drove past his brother walking down the road, and he wouldn't even stop to give him a ride.

The 16-year-old, who's as big as his brother, keeps his clothes in better shape, so the older one helps himself to his kid brother's clothes without asking. These boys fight and cuss each other out like a couple of mule skiners.

Why can't they act like brothers?

WEST VA. MOM

DEAR MOM: They do. Cain and Abel.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend (21) and I (19) have a very beautiful love relationship, but he says he doesn't "like" me. He says he "loves" me very often, but that is only when we are in a love situation.

He very seldom takes me places in

Laurelville News

By CELESTA HOY
332-3251

Let's hope this week will not be like the last one, four deaths of area residents is just too much. Last Monday I attended the funeral of my neighbor, Mary Canfield Wingett. I miss the Wingetts for I stopped in to see them and deliver their mail every day. Mr. Wingett is a patient in the Worthington Nursing Center and is not a bit well.

The next death was that of Rudolph Ebert whom I had known all my life, as well as all the other members of his family.

The death of Ramon Bigham on the 20th saddened the many friends of his and his family. I always enjoyed the short visits I made to the Bigham home and especially the last one when Ramon told me of the trip he and his mother had just returned from.

On Saturday I attended the funeral of my good friend Tuse Rose. I had known him since the day I was born and his greeting throughout the years was always "Hi Hoy" to which I replied "Hi Tuse". He will be greatly missed uptown — at the hardware, at the post office or just striding along the street toward home always with a cigar in his mouth.

The Pleasant Valley Home Economics Club met on the 20th at the country home of Mrs. Dan DeLong. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. Edna Sowers and Mrs. Madeline Claypool.

During the business session the nominating committee gave the names of the new officers for the coming year: president, Mrs. Jack Notestone; vice president, Mrs. Charlie Prichard; treasurer, Mrs. Doris Edwards; secretary, Mrs. Grace DeLong and assistant secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Haynes.

Beverly Donahey and Dorothy Wycoff of Logan were present and Mrs. Wycoff gave a demonstration on cake decorating. The cake was later served to the ladies. The May meeting will be a picnic in the Laurelville park. That will be the last meeting until September. Seventeen members were present. Contest winner was Mrs. Alice Pritchard with Mrs. Edwards receiving the door prize.

On Easter Sunday the Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Lehman entertained at their home Mr. and Mrs. Blair Ayers and children Melissa, Jeff and Richard of New Straitsville; Mrs. Della Ayers of Murray City; Mr. and Mrs. Lester St. Clair and children Tammy, Brian and Eric of New Straitsville; Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Lehman and son Adam; Rev. Tim Lehman of Logan; the Rev. Everett Warren and girls, Bonitta, Gale, Debbie, Judy, Dawn and April. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Love, Bill Love and daughter Kelly all of Lancaster.

Mrs. Ernest (Clara) Cox remains a patient in Doctor's Hospital North, recovering from a heart attack. Her daughter, Mrs. Bernadine Sutton of Tennessee has been visiting at the Cox home for the past week.

On Sunday Mrs. Clara Phelps of Logan and Celesta Hoy enjoyed dinner at Lancaster Holiday Inn celebrating their birthdays of the 19th and 24th.

On Sunday evening Elwood Reynolds and Celesta were guests of Elwoods parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Reynolds, for dinner at Hocking Hills Lodge. (All those birthday dinners don't do a thing to help my diet — I'll have to fast for a month to make up for them) Incidentally, a special thanks for the many lovely greetings I received.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Goodman of Athens visited Sunday afternoon with Ray and Winnie Clark.

The cooks of the Logan Elm School District and Zane Trace School attended the 22nd annual meeting of the Ohio Food Service Associations at Vet's Memorial in Columbus last Saturday.

At the opening of the meeting a film was shown entitled "Americana." Interesting sessions were given covering "Nutrition Education," "School Food Service Trends," "Cooperative Buying" and other topics of interest.

There were 51 companies represented who had products and samples on display.

Those attending from Logan Elm District were Jewell Hinton, Mary Beavers, Barbara Woods, Betty Weidlick, Mary Fee, Violet Thompson, Mildred Karshner, Ada Steel, Ruth Reid, Thelma Beavers, Bernice Pennington, Mary Agin, and June Poling.

Those from Zane Trace were Mary Valentine and Loraine McNeal.

Public Invited To Hospital Open House

NEW WING EMERGENCY ENTRANCE

DR. THOMAS FOX, RADIOLOGIST

CHARLES RIDEOUT, ADMINISTRATOR

Berger Hospital is celebrating National Hospital Week with two open house invitations for the public to view the new $2.5 million ancillary wing. The new wing will be open May 2 and 9 from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Visitors will also get a glimpse of the old wing from which these services have moved. Areas vacated in the older part of the hospital have been utilized to provide more patient beds and administrative offices.

The new wing, formally occupied on Jan. 1, has updated and expanded the hospital's health care offerings to the people of Circleville and Pickaway County.

With the completion of the new facility, the community has attracted two new surgeons and two new general practitioners. The two young men specializing in family practice will join Dr. William Myers this summer.

Housed in the ultra-modern ancillary wing are three operating suites, a five-station emergency ward with three private emergency examining rooms, pharmacy, laboratory, three-room X-ray area and central supply. The complexity of the new facility has to be seen to be appreciated.

A recovery room just off the surgical area can accommodate four patients.

Laboratory facilities in the new wing enable the hospital staff to have lab work completed on the spot. Many of the specimens which were formerly sent to Columbus for analysis can now be handled in the hospital lab. One of the most interesting pieces of equipment in the lab is a Dow Analyzer for blood samples.

John Churlik serves as chief lab technician at Berger. All bandages, instruments and solutions are sterilized in a separate area of the new wing.

Robert Mabe, registered pharmacist serving Berger Hospital, said that the new pharmacy is one of the most efficient such facilities in the Central Ohio area. It is at least ten times larger than the previous pharmacy which served Berger's patients.

Mabe operates his pharmacy on the unit dose system of dispensing medication which he explains is the most modern system known. It gives control of the medication by having the pharmacy and the nursing staff in continuous communication. A pharmacy this size could accommodate up to 200 beds and serves Berger's 60 patients' medication needs in less than a two-hour span.

The emergency room is complete with a coronary care unit where the patient suspected of having a heart attack is placed.

All corridors and facilities in the new wing meet up-to-the minute state requirements including a separate ventilating system for the surgical area. A silo-shaped structure can be seen on the outside of the new building which handles only the air flow in the surgical area.

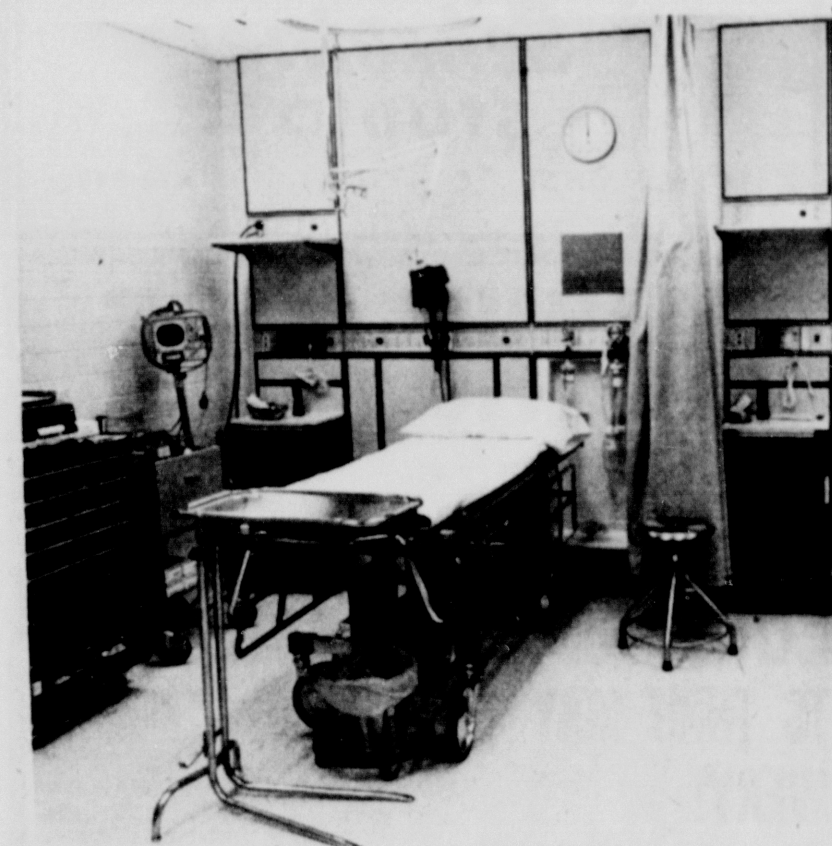

Also included in the tour will be a glimpse at the X-ray facilities. Ralph Altmeyer, chief X-ray technician, will be on hand to explain to visitors the mechanics of the area. Ultra-modern 90-second film processors eliminate the need for a dark room. Just off the X-ray area is a radiologists' office and a doctor's X-ray reading room.

Dr. Thomas Fox and a staff of radiologists from Columbus come to Berger Hospital five days a week since the completion of the new wing.

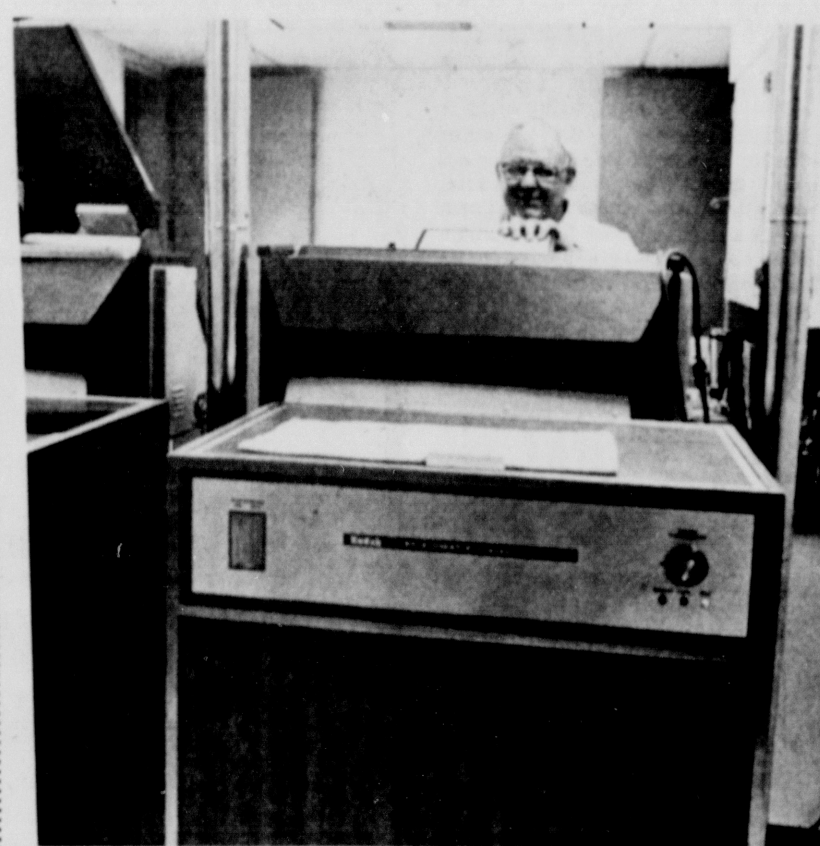

Ground was broken in the summer of 1974 for the new wing which is the first phase of a long-range plan for the complete renovation of Berger Hospital.

College Student Changes Seen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Colleges and universities are preparing for a shift in student population from young full-time students to older part-time students who are interested in jobs.

Fewer full-time students will go to college and the institutions must reorient their programs to handle the needs of adult students who attend college for specific goals, say Barry Render of the University of New Orleans, a consultant to the state Board of Regents, and Gerald Shawhan of the University of Cincinnati.

The part-time adult students comprise one third of the public college enrollments in the state and more than half of the twoyear college enrollments.

"Although some attend for personal reasons, as do most full-time students, most part-time students are job-motivated," the educators wrote in the Bulletin of Business Research, published by the Center for Business and Economic Research at Ohio State University.

"Educators are just now beginning to realize that for their institutions to survive, they must favorably influence several factors affecting enrollments," they wrote. "They must design programs especially for

Kissinger Makes Offer To Negotiate

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says the U.S. government will help negotiate the transition to black rule in Rhodesia if it is asked to do so.

Although Kissinger's offer at a news conference Wednesday stirred memories of his shuttle diplomacy between Israel and its Arab foes, he said: "I have no immediate plan to return to black Africa nor am I saying I would be the party" who would do the negotiating.

The secretary again warned the Soviet Union against direct interference in the struggle for black liberation in southern Africa.

"If one country tries to establish its hegemony, then the other nations will be forced to respond," he said. "We hope for the sake of Africa this can be avoided."

The Zaire government endorsed Kissinger's speech Tuesday repudiating the white-minority government in Rhodesia and calling for negotiations to transfer power to the black majority within two years.

"What we particularly appreciate is that the United States removes all hopes from the minority in Rhodesia that it can, with impunity, continue to spurn the wishes of the majority. It must know now that it cannot count on the U.S. support," said Foreign Minister Nguza Karl-I-Bond.

A communique issued after Kissinger conferred with Nguza and President Mobutu Sese Seko said the United States would provide Zaire with $5 million for cotton. It added that Zaire might also get a $20 million bank credit to finance the purchase of American mining equipment.

The cool high pressure ridge that has kept Ohio temperatures below normal so far this week has begun to weaken and will drift east of the state by Friday.

Low pressure moving east across the Gulf Coast region today and Friday will be too far south to affect Ohio's weather.

Today was expected to be sunny over the state with highs ranging from the upper 50s to the mid 60s. Clear weather tonight will be accompanied by lows generally in the 40s.

Cloudiness may increase Friday as temperatures reach the 60s. A gradual increase in moisture coupled with low pressure out of central Canada will bring a threat of showers over the weekend.

Intelligence Report Opens Door To Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate intelligence committee's catalogue of a variety of domestic intelligence abuses marks the end of its investigation and the beginning of a fight over whether a special congressional panel should monitor spy agencies.

In a 396-page report released Wednesday, the committee detailed previously disclosed abuses such as CIA domestic spying, the FBI's Cointelpro program and the National Security Agency's eavesdropping.

"All this occurred because intelligence agencies were ordered to break the law, felt they had a right to break the law, and even felt they had a duty ... to break the law," Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., a member of the committee, said after release of the report.

The intelligence panel declared that "intelligence activities which undermine individual rights must end" and made a total of 96 recommendations, including the formation of a strong congressional panel to guard against future spy agency abuses.

Without the new watchdog panel, "the great work of this committee will have been lost," said Mondale.

But within hours of Mondale's remarks, the Senate Rules Committee voted to gut that recommendation by stripping all budgetary and legislative authority from the proposed watchdog panel.

Rules Committee member Dick Clark, D-Iowa, called the 5 to 4 vote "a direct repudiation" of the intelligence panel's findings that the government used bugging, burglary and blackmail to collect vast information on the private lives and political beliefs of Americans.

The Rules Committee adopted instead a substitute proposed by chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., to convert the proposed watchdog panel to a study group with no legislative or budgetary powers.

Clark, along with most of the members of the intelligence committee, vowed, in Mondale's words, "to fight very, very vigorously" when the issue reaches the Senate floor within the next two weeks.

Clark predicted that the Senate would not take up the issue of revealing the U.S. spy budget, another recommendation of the intelligence committee, until it has resolved the problem of what type of permanent intelligence committee it wants.

Two Republican members of the intelligence panel, vice chairman John Tower of Texas and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, have announced their opposition to creation of a new intelligence committee. The nine other members of the committee appear united in their support of such a panel.

Both Tower and Goldwater are members of the Armed Services Committee, which traditionally has been responsible for monitoring activities of the CIA, Defense Intelligence Agency and NSA. Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., a member of the intelligence committee, declared Wednesday that "Congress bears a heavy responsibility for ignoring its constitutional oversight role."

In its domestic spying report, the intelligence panel recommended:

- That CIA, NSA and military intelligence agencies be barred from domestic security activity except in cases involving their employees;
- That the FBI be required to obtain a judicial warrant before using wiretaps, break-ins or mail openings in domestic investigations;
- That NSA be required to obtain a warrant before monitoring "any communications to, from or about an American" unless it involves foreign spy or terrorist activities;
- That all past intelligence data collected through illegal techniques be locked up and destroyed.

The report, which contained few new revelations of government wrongdoing, made the following major findings:

- "Too many people have been spied upon by too many government agencies." FBI headquarters has over 500,000 domestic intelligence files; the CIA opened nearly a quarter million letters; NSA obtained millions of private telegrams; the Army made intelligence files on about 100,000 Americans; the Internal Revenue Service created files on 11,000 persons and groups because of their political beliefs.
- "Intelligence agencies have collected vast amounts of information about the intimate details of citizens' lives and about their participation in legal and peaceful political activities." The women's liberation movement was infiltrated by FBI informants; the NAACP was the subject of a 25-year FBI investigation; Army intelligence agents opened files on Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., and Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., and spied on a children's Halloween party.

"Covert action programs have been used to disrupt the lawful political activities of individual Americans and groups and to discredit them, using dangerous and degrading tactics which are abhorrent in a free and decent society." Under Cointelpro, the FBI used informants and anonymous letters to break up marriages, get people fired and incite warfare among rival groups. The FBI tried to destroy Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. by wiretapping his phones, bugging his hotel rooms, attempting to ruin his marriage and sending an anonymous note that King saw as a suggestion that he commit suicide.

"The most sweeping domestic intelligence surveillance programs have produced surprisingly few useful results." Between 1960 and 1974 the FBI conducted more than 500,000 investigations of persons suspected of being subversives, "yet not a single individual or group has been prosecuted."

Senior officials frequently ignored the possible illegality of intelligence-gathering programs and occasionally carried out activities they knew to be illegal. William Sullivan, who for 10 years headed the FBI's intelligence division, told the committee, "Never once did I hear anybody, including myself, raise the question: 'Is this course of action which we have agreed upon lawful, is it legal, is it ethical or moral?'"

Publication of the report, entitled "Intelligence Activities and the Rights of Americans," came two days after release of a similar volume on foreign intelligence activities and all but ended an unprecedented 15-month probe of U.S. spy agencies. A subcommittee headed by Schweiker has not yet completed its investigation into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Sabina Resident Gets Prison Term

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Richard Dunn, Sabina, today began serving a 15-year to life term in the explosion death of his wife, Betty, in 1974.

Dunn, who was indicted for aggravated murder, pleaded guilty in Clinton County Common Pleas Court Wednesday to a lesser charge.

The action followed loss of his appeal to have the charges dropped because the case did not go quickly to trial.

The prosecution said it had evidence to show that Dunn had made statements to a sheriff's deputy that he had purchased explosives and planned to kill his wife.

Mrs. Dunn died of burns after her car exploded, police officials said.

April Bar Meeting Held

The Pickaway County Bar Association held its monthly luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Pickaway Arms.

Law Day Chairman, Jim Hill, went over plans for the law program in the county and city schools being put on this week and next week. The plans for the Courthouse Open House and Jail visit sponsored by The Bar Association and Pickaway County Elected Officials were also discussed.

A guest and candidate for the Fourth District Court of Appeals, Gallia County Probate Court Judge Ronald R. Calhoun was introduced. Bar Association President, Richard L. Gerhardt, then introduced the luncheon speaker, Bruce Cameron, Attorney at Law, Columbus, whose topic was the Federal Real Estate Settlement Procedure Act. Cameron discussed the various requirements under the act and how it affects both the seller and buyer, as well as the lending institutions.

President Gerhardt in behalf of the Pickaway County Bar Association invited all citizens of Pickaway County to come to the Courthouse Open House and Jail visit, noting that there would be something of interest for everyone, from documents containing Presidents' signatures, to a cartoon film on the Bill of Rights for the kids, to a tour of the jail.

Courts Sometimes Last Step

Editor's Note: You've complained to the manager, written to the company president and called your local consumer affairs office and you're still left with a damaged product or an appliance that doesn't work. You still have some options left.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
An increasing number of Americans who can't get satisfaction despite the growth in complaint agencies are taking their grievances to courts and arbitration boards.

The most popular legal step is to fight it out in small claims court, with alternatives including class action lawsuits and arbitration boards set up by the Better Business Bureaus.

The atmosphere in small claims court is much more informal than in regular court. You usually don't need a lawyer (some states even ban attorneys). And it won't cost much.

Small claims courts are designed for those cases where it simply wouldn't pay to get a lawyer and invest a lot of time; the costs would be more than the damages involved.

Rules for small claims courts vary from state to state. The filing fee is relatively small — generally between $10 and $50 — and the amount of damages you can recover runs from a couple hundred to a couple thousand dollars.

"It is a poor man's court," said County Court Judge Thomas O'Connell of Dade County, Fla.

O'Connell's duties include hearing small claims or summary procedure cases as they are called in Florida. John Nelson, clerk of the civil division of the court — the part in which O'Connell works — reported 24,329 small claims cases were filed in 1975, compared to 20,904 in 1974 and 18,163 in 1973.

Why the increase? No one is sure. Nelson said a 1973 change in the law transferring some cases to small claims court that previously had been heard elsewhere might be part of the reason, although that would not account for the increase from 1974 to 1975. "Or," he said, "it might be the economy."

The theory that people are more likely to go to court in hard times is supported by figures for the first part of this year when the recession had eased. Nelson said 3,443 small claims cases were heard in January and February this year, compared to 3,638 in the same period of 1975.

If you need legal advice during the case, you probably can get it from the court itself.

O'Connell heard nine cases in a recent morning. They ranged from an argument over a broken windshield to a case involving a used car loan.

(The annual interest rate on the loan, clearly stated in the contract, was 27.1 per cent. "Usurious," O'Connell said. "They didn't get a chance to open their mouth because they didn't have to. All I had to do was look at the contract.")

Small claims courts, of course, serve businesses as well as consumers.

Assembly Passes Building Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislation authorizing the Ohio Building Authority to build additional state office buildings has been approved by the General Assembly and sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, and Sen. Marigene Valliquette, D-11 Toledo, is intended primarily to authorize an office building in Toledo. However, sponsors have stressed it would also apply in other counties.

The bill, which received final approval in the House Monday on a 72-14 vote, authorizes the OBA to proceed with the building if multiple state agencies, institutions and political subdivisions request the building and agree to lease it for at least 20 years.

Landlords take tenants to small claims court. Finance companies try to collect on debts. In Dade County, O'Connell said, most of the cases involve companies suing individuals.

The class action lawsuit is more complicated and involves an attorney. Robert Sable of the National Consumer Law Center in Boston said the class action is used when so many people have the same grievance that one big suit is more practical than individual cases.

Several basic legal tests determine whether a class action suit is practical, Sable said. The issue has to be present "pretty much the same fact pattern, pretty much the same law pattern, the same violations."

If you buy a television set and the picture tube is cracked, you probably don't have a class action case, Sable said. On the other hand, "if a company advertises a special and you get there and they don't have it ... everybody who read that ad would be affected." A class action might be possible.

Sable said the class action suit "is a very valid and important remedy for consumers" because individual complaints usually do not involve large sums of money. The cost of a lawsuit would be more than any damages recovered.

"The main purpose of a class action suit is not really redress to the consumer," Sable added. "But it forces illegitimate dealers and lenders to comply with the law. It is one of the most effective private enforcement remedies."

Sheldon V. Burman, a New York attorney, described class action suits as a means to "give the little guy a forum."

There are arguments against class action suits, however. Seth Rosner of New York, a member of an American Bar Association committee on the issue, said: "Those who are opposed claim that class action suits have been used as blackmail." Corporations offer settlements, even where claims are unjustified, simply in order to avoid a lawsuit and the possibility of large damage awards.

Restrictions on class action suits vary in state and federal courts. The U.S. Supreme Court dealt a blow to federal class action suits when it ruled in 1974 that the plaintiff in a case involving monetary damages has to pay the cost of individually notifying all potential members of the class.

This group could include everyone who shopped at a particular store during a particular period or all the stockholders of a given company and the cost might run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The ruling involved Morton Eisen of New York, who sued on behalf of himself and other people who bought shares on the New York Stock Exchange in less than 100-share lots. He claimed broker fees for such purchases were excessive, and said that while his own overcharge was only $70, the excess to all odd-lot buyers — some six million of them — was about $120 million. If Eisen had wanted to continue his suit, he would have had to individually notify all six million buyers.

Another major class action involved five drug companies accused of overpricing the drug tetracycline from 1954 to 1966. The firms settled the suit in 1974, agreeing to pay $14 million to state agencies and $25 million to up to a million individuals in six states. Related lawsuits are still pending.

An individual with an unsettled dispute that he or she doesn't want to take to court can use the Better Business Bureaus system of arbitration, established with three pilot projects in 1971 and now including about 100 arbitration programs in major metropolitan areas. Almost 15,000 businesses have agreed to participate.

The service is free. Consumer and business agree to accept the results as legal and binding. The bureau suggests arbitration if earlier attempts at resolving a dispute are unsuccessful.

"It's a very simple process," said Jesse Bogan of the National Council of Better Bureaus in Washington. Both sides "select a neutral third party from a pool of volunteers" recruited by local bureaus and trained in arbitration procedures.

It takes a maximum of 45 days from the time the two parties agree to arbitration until a decision is reached, Bogan said. Since 1971, some 2,500 cases have gone to arbitration. About 40 per cent of the decisions are in favor of the individual; 40 per cent in favor of business; and 20 per cent are mixed, Bogan said.

Florence Nicholls of the Better Business Bureau in Rochester, N.Y., said arbitration cases range from "a man claiming he was shortweighted five dozen clams" to arguments over home construction.

The Rochester bureau has a pool of 77 volunteers — "a marvelous cross-section of the community" — Mrs. Nicholls said. There is one arbitrator who speaks Turkish; another is a rabbi; still others are housewives, businessmen and college professors.

Most calls to the Better Business Bureau in Rochester — up to 600 a day — don't wind up in arbitration. Sometimes they can be settled with a

Phillies Edge Cincinnati, 7-6

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tug McGraw looks at relief pitching in terms of problem and solution.

McGraw talked about his philosophy of relief pitching after he earned his second save of the season in one inning of pitching Wednesday night as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Cincinnati Reds 7-6.

The 31-year-old McGraw is 2-2 on the season with an ERA of 2.25. He feels he's a better pitcher than he was in 1973, when he helped the New York Mets win the National League pennant and carry the Oakland A's to seven games before losing in the World Series.

"I've got more command of my pitches," McGraw said after pitching the ninth inning, getting two out, giving up a triple to Johnny Bench and then striking out pinchhitter Bob Bailey on a 1-2 pitch to end the game.

But back to his theory of problem and solution.

"The problem is the situation," McGraw explained. "You usually come on in tight situations. You have to get your team through the inning.

"The solution to the problem is the hitter. Regardless of who the hitter is you consider him the solution. The odds are against the hitter. Even the good ones are out seven times out of ten. You have to have enough confidence to deal with the problem."

McGraw confided that he has added a slider to his repertoire. "That gives me four pitches. Barring something unforeseen, I'm pitching as well now as I ever have."

McGraw and Ron Schueler, who retired the hard-hitting Reds in order in the eighth protecting that one-run lead, shared the honors with catcher Bob Boone, who hit a three-run homer in the fifth.

The 28-year-old Boone has snapped back after a frustrating 1975 season in which he was displaced as the No. 1 catcher by Johnny Oates. Boone hit only .246 and drove in but 20 runs. The Phillies would have grabbed another catcher if one had been on the winter market.

Boone disclosed that he worked from October to Christmas on his attitude and from Christmas to spring training (in March) on his batting. He hit in the batting cage under Veterans Stadium under the careful eye of batting coach Billy DeMars. They made some adjustments.

Boone had a fine spring training and in the first 14 games of the season he is hitting .310 with 11 RBI. He hit a home run that tied a game in the ninth against the Chicago Cubs, 13-13. The Phillies eventually won, 18-16, the day

Mike Schmidt hit four consecutive homers.

Andy Messersmith is still out there pitching — but doesn't look like a million dollars yet.

"I'm very disappointed at the way things are going for me," says the high-priced right-hander. "I'm not putting the ball where I want to. The point of this game is to win. What good is it if you don't win?"

So far, Messersmith hasn't repaid the Atlanta Braves a fraction of his million-dollar contract. Wednesday, he continued to meet failure with a 3-0 loss to the New York Mets.

"I had terrible control," said Messersmith, who has an 0-1 record in four appearances with Atlanta.

Dave Kingman hit one of Messersmith's pitches for a three-run homer, his ninth homer of the young baseball season.

In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the San Francisco Giants 4-2 in 16 innings, the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the Cincinnati Reds 7-6; the Houston Astros beat the Montreal Expos 6-4 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second 8-7; the Chicago Cubs stopped the San Diego Padres 8-5 and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1.

Kingman slammed his homer in the first inning and Craig Swan made the lead stand up with a splendid five-hit, 11-strikeout performance.

Cardinals 4, Giants 2

Rookie Doug Clary hit a two-run homer in the 16th inning in his second major league at-bat to give St. Louis a marathon victory over San Francisco. Clary pinch-hit for Mike Proly, 1-0, the fifth St. Louis pitcher, who was credited with the victory.

Houston 6-7, Montreal 4-8

Leon Roberts' three-run homer in a four-run first inning helped Houston beat Montreal in the first game of their doubleheader. Pinch-hitter Jose Morales singled home the winning run with one out in the ninth inning as Montreal rallied to take the second game.

Cubs 8, Padres 5

Rick Monday drove in four runs with a homer and a double to spark Chicago over San Diego. Monday got the Cubs headed toward their second straight victory over the Padres in the second inning when his fifth homer of the year highlighted a three-run Chicago rally off San Diego starter Randy Jones. In the fourth, Monday rapped a two-run double to extend the Chicago lead to 6-0 and knock Jones from the box.

Dodgers 2, Pirates 1

Ron Cey slugged a one-out home run in the bottom of the ninth inning to break a 1-1 tie and send Los Angeles past Pittsburgh for its fifth straight victory. Burt Hooton, 1-2, earned his first victory by scattering six hits and striking out nine. Jerry Reuss, 2-2, took the loss.

AKRON — Former champion Ray Floyd, winner of the recent Masters, heads a list of six early entries for the 1976 American Golf Classic.

Also entering the $200,000 event, set for August 23-29 on Firestone's new North Course, are veterans Gay Brewer, Bob Murphy, Dave Stockton, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Don Bies.

This year marks the first time the Classic will not be played on the South Course, where Floyd holds the tournament record of 268, the 12-under-par thrashing he gave the "Monster" while winning the Classic in 1969.

The North Course offers a par 72, 7,153-yard challenge on which water accompanies 10 of the 18 holes. Like its sister to the south, the North Course was designed by Robert Trent Jones.

The American Golf Classic concludes the 1976 Summer Segment of the PGA Tour, and represents the last opportunity for players to qualify for the big, new World Series of Golf, which will be played August 30-Sept. 5 on the South Course.

Billed as the "championship of the world," the new World Series offers a $300,000 purse, with $100,000 going to the winner.

Floyd's competitive record at Firestone has been solid, showing a second-place tie in the Classic of 1974 in addition to his victory in 1969. The strong man from Lake Havasu City, Ariz., also tied for 10th in the PGA Championship here last year.

Brewer and Murphy shared second place in the 1973 Classic behind winner Bruce Crampton, and Brewer was also involved, with Floyd, in the sudden-death playoff in 1974 which resulted in a Jim Colbert victory. Brewer and Floyd shared second place with Forrest Fezler.

Stockton's best finish in the Classic was a tie for 10th in 1970, but he twice shared the winner's mantle at Firestone in the CBS Golf Classic, with Al Geiberger as his partner.

The popular Rodriguez has competed in 11 editions of the Classic, his best finish a tie for 6th in 1971.

Don Bies was the first man to card a six-under 64 on the South Course, during the 1968 Classic, when he tied for fourth place. The course record was later tied by Brewer, Lanny Wadkins and Tom Weiskopf, and then broken during the PGA Championship last year by Bruce Crampton's 63.

A total field of 100 to 110 players are expected for the 14th edition of the Classic, which provides the inaugural major competitive test for the North Course.

Tickets for both the Classic and the new World Series of Golf are available through the Golf Offices, located on the Ninth Floor, No. 1 Cascade Plaza, in Akron (44308).

A special telephone hotline — (216) 384-1976 — has been installed to handle requests for ticket information for both events. The offices are open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Unioto Tops Tigers 4-3

The Shermans of Unioto came to bat in the bottom of the fifth, down 3-0, and scored four runs to nip Circleville 4-3 at Unioto Wednesday. That knocked Circleville out of a first place tie with Hillsboro in the South Central Ohio League.

The Tigers jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Circleville loaded the bases on a Biff Bumgarner double and walks to Keith Sanders and Doug McGlone. Brad Allison then cracked a two run single.

McGlone later scored in the third on an RBI single by Gary Combs.

Biff Bumgarner pitched a four-hitter in a losing effort. He walked three and fanned six. He hit one batter and threw a wild pitch.

Tigers Clobber Oakland, 8-1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Now hear this, you Oakland A's: You have seen Mr. Roberts at his very best. "I don't think I can pitch any better," Dave Roberts, a 31-year-old left-hander, said after limiting hard-hitting Oakland to two hits and one unearned run in pitching the Detroit Tigers to an 8-1 victory Wednesday.

It was the second triumph by the newly acquired Roberts over Oakland this season and raised his record to 3-0, all complete games. His earned-run-average is 1.00 and he has allowed just 13 hits in 27 innings.

In other American League action, the Baltimore Orioles downed the California Angels 4-2, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-1 and the Cleveland Indians crushed the Minnesota Twins 9-0. The New York-Texas and Boston-Kansas City games were rained out.

Oakland's only hits off Roberts were an infield single by Bert Campaneris in the third inning and Ken McMullen's gift double in the ninth, a routine fly ball that left fielder Alex Johnson failed to catch.

The Tigers jumped on Mike Norris and Dick Bosman for six runs in the third inning. Johnson tripled for one run, then Willie Horton and Jason Thompson singled in a run apiece. After a single by Aurelio Rodriguez, John Wockenfuss doubled in another, Tom Verver's infield single brought home the fifth run and Gary Sutherland hit a sacrifice fly.

Orioles 4, Angels 2

A surprise double steal and Brooks Robinson's run-producing double helped Baltimore score three fifth-inning runs as the Orioles finally gave Ken Holtzman some batting support. After the Angels tied the score in the top of the fifth, Paul Blair opened the

Play The Red Seen Good Derby Horse

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Johnny Campo, the rotund trainer of Play The Red, looks more like a railbird at a New York track than one of the nation's top trainers ready to send his mount into Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

"I'm a bad guy, I'm from New York," joked Campo wearing his ever-present two-colored baseball cap. "I was born in Harlem and moved to Ozone Park (Queens). My father was from Italy, a carpenter. What am I doing with horses?"

Aqueduct is located in Ozone Park and Campo, 38, began getting involved in horses at the age of 15. He groomed horses for Lucien Laurin and the late Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons for two years and later for Eddie Nelyo "who taught me everything I know."

Campo has met with success since 1968 when he began training on his own. Play The Red is owned by Max Gluck's Elmendorf Farm. In addition, Campo trains for eight owners, including himself.

Play The Red, a fourth-place finisher in the Wood Memorial, was among those entered when the entry box opened at 7 a.m., EDT, today for a $4,000 fee per horse. Owners must ante up another $3,500 on Saturday for the

LE Reserves Bop Westfall

Logan Elm's reserve squad traveled to Westfall and beat the Mustangs 9-5 in baseball action Wednesday.

Lynn Strehle picked up the victory for the Braves. He struck out 13, walked seven and allowed seven hits.

Randy Adams went the distance for the Mustangs. He fanned 10 Braves, walked six and gave up 10 hits.

For Logan Elm, Tom Congrove cracked a double and two singles, Lynn Strehle helped his own game with two doubles and a single, Jeff Davis lined two singles, Todd Young had a double and Chris Fouch hit a one-bagger.

Denny Finch led the Mustangs with two singles in two at bats, J. D. Williams had two singles, Greg Clark, Randy Adams and Terry Henson each had a single.

Logan Elm is 4-2 on the year and will host London Saturday in a double-header.

Ted Stewart Named Middletown Coach

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Ted Stewart, 35, five year assistant to Middletown High School Basketball Coach Paul Walker, has been named to replace his famous boss.

Walker, 65, stands alone among Ohio high school coaches with 695 victories in 37 basketball seasons while losing 169 games. His five state championships is another unequaled feat. Four times he was Ohio coach of the Year and he won the honor once nationally.

Bryan's Scotty Jeff Wins Latonia Feature

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — Bryan's Scotty Jeff collected his third victory of the meeting Wednesday night winning the featured pace mile at Lebanon Raceway in 2:05.3-5 by three lengths.

TURKEY — Pat Ginther, Kingston, killed this 20-pound wild turkey shortly after entering the Hocking County woods where he was hunting Tuesday. He was able to entice old Tom within shooting range with a turkey call. Average hunter success in Ohio is about one in 23 according to the Ohio Division of Wildlife, so Ginther considers himself pretty lucky to have bagged this bird on his first turkey hunt.

$125,000 added derby which will have its 102nd running before a crowd of more than 100,000 at Churchill Downs.

Campo has trained three previous Derby horses but claims Play The Red, winner of only one of five starts this year, is only his second "legitimate" Derby contender. The other, he said was Jim French, who finished second to Canonero II in the 1971 derby. Twice A Prince, 12th in 1973, and Media, fifth last year, also ran in the 1 1/4 mile derby.

"He might not show it today, and he might not show it Saturday," said Campo. "But Play The Red's a good horse."

Braves Top Mustangs In 13-2 Tilt

Logan Elm defeated Westfall, 13-2, Wednesday in a makeup game behind the steady pitching of Mike Johnston and Steve Rawlins.

Johnston hurled the first four innings and Rawlins came on in relief to finish the tilt. They walked three and struckout seven, and gave up six hits.

Westfall used a trio of hurlers. Howard Rowland started and pitched four innings. He was relieved by Terry Hanson in the fifth who was relieved by Chris Riddle in the sixth. They walked seven and were touched for 14 hits.

Rick Stillings was the big hitter for the Mustangs, banging two singles and a double. Dave Clem, John Long and Kevin Reid all singled.

For Logan Elm, Randy Pontius had two singles, Jeff Reichelderfer three singles, Chuck Cave two singles, Rob Black and Tony Crist a double each, Jeff Collins, Tim Fouch, Mark Skinner, Mike Davis and Willard Faulk, all singles.

The Braves have a 12-6 overall record and host Fairfield Union tonight in a key Mid State League game. Tomorrow LE travels to Liberty Union. If Logan Elm wins both games, they will gain at least a share of the Mid State League baseball championship.

Tiger Freshman Track Team Beats Hilliard

The Circleville freshman track team took nine first places and beat Hilliard, 64 1/2 - 44 1/2 on the Tigers' track and field.

Other firsts were Jeff Strawser, shot put, 42 feet, 10 inches; Don Hill, high jump, 5 feet, four inches; Tom Logan, discus, 126 feet, 8 inches; Dennis Lester, 880, 2:11.9; Tim Welliver, 220, 25.1.

The 440 relay team of Jim Gates, Chris Mays, Don Hill and Tim Welliver finished first in a time of 49.2 and the 880 relay team of Tim Pontious, Chris Mays, Don Hill and Wayne Rhodes broke the string with a time of 1:42.

Charger Psychiatrist Admits Pill Peddling

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A University of California psychiatrist says he supplied drugs to San Diego Charger players without the knowledge or consent of the club's front office.

Dr. Arnold Mandell of UC San Diego said he supplied amphetamines to the Chargers during the 1973 season, when the team won two games, lost 11 and tied one.

During that season, Mandell acted as an unpaid consultant and team psychiatrist at the invitation of Harland Svare, former Charger coach and general manager.

Tribe Routs Minnesota

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians are murder on Minnesota's Bert Blyleven.

The Indians, who have a 9-4 record against Blyleven, drove the Twins right hander to the showers in just over four innings Wednesday, routing Minnesota 9-0 to sweep a two-game series.

"It seemed like he was throwing good, but we just kept hitting him," said Cleveland's Rick Manning, who homered, doubled and singled to drive in three runs. "He made a good pitch on the home run ball. It was low and in, but I just got lucky."

Blyleven, now 1-2, saw his earned run average rocket from 1.87 to 3.79 after being tagged for 11 hits and all the Cleveland runs.

"I never got the ball down," said the 25-year-old Blyleven. "I just got smoked."

While Cleveland bats hammered loudly, Indians pitchers Dennis Eckersley and Don Hood combined in a four-hit shutout with Eckersley going the first six innigs to even his record at 2-2.

"I guess it helps when you're going against someone who's going bad," Eckersley said in reference to his pitching opponent. "It also helps when you get nine runs as fast as we did today."

Memphis Blues Top Syracuse, 4-3

By The Associated Press
Bob Andrews doubled home the tying run and then scored the winning run in the 10th inning Wednesday evening as the Memphis Blues posted a 4-3 International League baseball victory over visiting Syracuse.

Andrews came home on an error by Syracuse's George Zeber.

In other IL action Wednesday, Charleston topped Rhode Island 2-1 and Richmond defeated Toledo 12-5. The Tidewater at Rochester game was postponed due to the wet condition of the field.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

New books in the children's room this week encompass all genres of literature. Whether you like spots or poetry, non-fiction or drama, comedy or mystery, your chances of finding a likeable book here are excellent.

If you are a historical fiction buff, read "Willie Jasper's Golden Eagle" and learn a little about life on the Mississippi in 1870. You'll join a ten year old boy and his father as they travel to and from New Orleans on a river boat.

New Grain Sales Made To Russians

WASHINGTON (AP) — New grain sales have been made to the Soviet Union, including some wheat and corn, which will be charged against a long-term agreement calling for deliveries to begin this fall.

The Agriculture Department said late Wednesday that Russia has bought 3.4 million metric tons of grain, the first round of sales since early last November. The new sales had been anticipated by department experts for several months.

Although USDA declined to identify the firms, Continental Grain Co., New York, announced later that it had sold two million tons of the grain. Other companies involved, according to trade sources, were Cook Industries, Memphis, Tenn., and Cargill, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn.

The department said a total of two million tons of corn involved in the sales would come from the 1975 harvest. That boosted to about 15.8 million tons the amount of grain sold to the Soviets last July, including about 11.4 million tons of feed grain, nearly all corn, and 4.4 million tons of wheat.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat. It is the unit most commonly used in international grain trade.

The new sales have been "counted" in official export projections for some time and will not materially affect consumer food prices, according to department experts. Record grain crops last year have led to a modest buildup of U.S. reserves and the department says farmers could harvest huge new crops this year if they get normal weather.

Judge Blocks Travel Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Court Judge Frederick Shoemaker issued a permanent injunction Wednesday barring a Wilmington, Del., travel service from violating Ohio's consumer protection laws.

The order requires Condomart International, Inc., to place $6,000 in an escrow account and resolve consumer complaints.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown filed suit against the company last November after 60 high school students from Columbus, Portsmouth and Mentor complained the firm failed to deliver advertised goods and services during a trip to Spain in April 1974.

Brown said the firm operated under the name of Youth Travel Abroad.

Medicaid Cutbacks Delayed 2 Weeks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Medicaid recipients and county officials will have two additional weeks to work with state officials on ways to avoid cuts in the Medicaid program.

The delay in implementation of the cuts was ordered Wednesday by Gov. James A. Rhodes. The reductions are now scheduled to take effect May 15 instead of Saturday.

Welfare Director Raymond McKenna said he received authorization to extend the effective date from Rhodes' office, which has been in contact with the governor who is on an industrial development trip to Japan.

"The governor believes there must be a delay to prevent the impending Medicaid crisis until the (welfare) department and the General Assembly can act on several possible alternative solutions," McKenna said.

Meanwhile, the Senate Rules Committee planned to vote today on the confirmation of McKenna as welfare director. The Senate Health and Retirement Committee rejected the confirmation late Tuesday.

Cuyahoga County Commissioner Seth C. Taft said he and other officials met with McKenna and legislative leaders Wednesday, hoping to find alternatives to the reduction.

He said legislative leaders pledged cooperation in transferring funds to balance the Medicaid budget. McKenna says the program faces a $40 million deficit unless the reductions are made.

If the cuts go into effect, they would reduce income to Cleveland area health providers by about $20 million, he said. "Neither Cuyahoga County or the hospitals that provide the service can afford to pay that," Taft said.

Taft spoke at a meeting of 250 persons from Cuyahoga, Summit, Stark and Trumbull counties who came to Columbus to seek methods to prevent the program reductions.

McKenna said he was willing to re-evaluate the situation, but repeated his position that there are insufficient funds in the Medicaid budget.

Meanwhile, he was to testify late Wednesday in the second day of a federal court hearing considering an injunction against the Medicaid cuts. Two class action suits contend that the cuts would violate federal Social Security provisions and the due process clause of the 14th Amendment.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Duncan was scheduled to decide Friday whether to issue a preliminary injunction delaying the Medicaid cuts, according to a law clerk in his office.

The cuts would eliminate reimbursements for nonemergency medical transportation, optometrists, dentists and for physical and psychological therapy.

Tax Rates Rise In School Districts

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Tax rates have been raised in four school districts in Richland County by the state Board of Tax Appeals to adjust levels following a reappraisal of real estate last year.

The board said the Richland County Budget Commission reduced rates too much in the Lexington, Clear Fork, Ontario and Shelby school districts.

The adjustments, ranging from 80 cents to $1.60 per $1,000 taxable value, will take affect on property taxes paid in 1977, the tax appeal board said.

Festival frenzy fever is the number one topic in our town this week and small wonder since the hour of opening day for the Deercreek Dam Days Festival is drawing ever closer.

All the contestants for queen and junior queen are eagerly and somewhat nervously preparing for the Thursday 6:30 p.m. parade and the all important judging. One of the most exciting moments of the festival comes when the decisions of the judges are finally made known.

We have always been fortunate in the high interest shown in the royalty contests. The candidates are each number one character which makes it a difficult job for the judges but it means that the festival is guaranteed quality royalty and so it has been for our six years.

The judges are to be commended for the careful consideration given each contestant. Our judges are another area in which we are indeed fortunate, too.

And so it is the same for our young royalty, the little prince and princess. The big night for them is the 6:30 p.m. parade Friday with judging immediately following the parade.

Special entertainment acts will follow each night after the royalty contests. Bicentennial music, exotic dancing and karate demonstrations are three of the acts scheduled to perform. These are for Thursday night.

McGuffy Lane Country Rock will be the drawing card Friday night. If you dig good country rock this is the show to attend and don't forget it is free to the public. Who can beat a bargain like that?

Saturday and Sunday schedules are filled to capacity with something happening every minute the festival is open. Beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday the Youth Horse Show will get underway at the village park. The response of sponsors for this new undertaking has been super terrific.

Also heading up the Saturday bill we have the 1 p.m. Bicentennial Costume Contest; the 2 p.m. Baby Contest; the Morning Star Gospel Singers of Ashville at 5:30 p.m.; a magnificent Bicentennial Parade at 6:30 p.m. followed with a hog calling contest and the Jim Raleigh Country Express Country Western Show and Dance.

Other interesting features not to be overlooked are the popular flea market held on the school grounds as well as the antique engine show and the antique and classic car show.

Anyone interested in having an engine or car on display are cordially invited to do so. There will be no prizes awarded this year since it is a first time venture but if successful this year then new plans will prevail next year. These activities are for Saturday and Sunday.

Activities get underway at 1 p.m. on Sunday. Officials do not permit the festival to open any earlier so as to allow ample time for everyone to attend the worship service of his or her choice. With this thought in mind the time for the Sunday Royalty Parade is set for 3:30 p.m. so visiting queens can have travel time.

A bevy of beauties are planning to grace the parade and each will speak briefly about the festival or organization she represents following the parade. Immediately following this will be the high point of the day—the Senior Citizens Honor Hour. Being honored for 1976 are Esther Wardell, Ilo Stevenson, Jack and Ellen Dunlap, Bert and Virginia Francis, Tom and Mae Carter.

For wrestling fans there will be professional big time wrestlers doing their "thing" at 1 p.m. Drill team competition of routines will begin at 1 p.m., also. The Circleville Kiwanis Club have an outstanding flag pageant titled "So Proudly We Hall" that absolutely nobody should miss. Lasting approximately 25 minutes the Pageant will be presented at 3 p.m. on Sunday (just prior to the parade).

Arts and Crafts

The pavilion should be filled with arts and crafts if the indicated interest is fulfilled. We are proud as can be that Miss Dhe!-Renick has consented to be present and demonstrating her candle dipping techniques as used in days of yore. She will have hand dipped candles available for purchase.

Ray S. Roberts, master quilter, of Piketon, Ohio will show his talents Sunday and will have quilts that can be ordered.

Several other craft artists are planning to display at the Pavilion, too. Don't miss them. Local craft artist, Diane Morrison, will be among the exhibitors.

The soup kitchen will be in the Pavilion and delicious soups will be served by the members of the United Methodist Church and the Church of Christ in Christian Union. For a nourishing soup be sure to patronize them.

The midway is the best ever this year and promises to have something for all. Above all else keep in mind that the amusement rides are only 35 cents each.

Enjoy the savoury delight of a crispy crunchy tender golden fried fish by the Volunteer Fire Department, homemade pie that makes you forget mother's will be featured by Sorosis Club, kids of the MYF offer tastefully tempting hot dogs, and when you are filled to the full with food then take a rest break and play several games of bingo with the boys at the American Legion hall or try your luck with the Jaycees and what they have to entertain you.

Sarah Barnes has a great idea and if it can be firmed up in time you will be certain to find it enjoyable. Sarah has just returned from a Washington, D.C. sojourn and has marvelous ideas if only time will permit putting together.

If I have overlooked any local organization please forgive me as it is not intentional but the old bones are beginning to weary a bit and there is still much to be done. Burning the midnight oil gets to me these days and the oil has really been burning for the past several days.

Ticket Sellers

Mary Alice Greenwood has taken on the chairmanship of filling the amusement ride ticket booths with volunteer workers so if any reader is interested in lending a helping hand please, for goodness sake, give M.A. a call at 986-5481. Many folks are truly wanting to be of service and it is not always easy to get in touch with everyone so don't hesitate to volunteer.

Grand Opening

A new business is having a grand opening this week in our town and a most welcome business it will be. Helen and Paul Whitesed and daughter Kay (Mrs. Bill) Swaney announce the grand opening of Whitesed's Greenhouse.

Located in the rear of their home at 106 S. Main St., they offer at reasonable prices plants of all kinds—vegetable and flower. Hanging baskets, geraniums, mums, petunias potted plants and pots filled to specification.

They aim to please by having something for everyone and if not they will get it for you. Their place of business is right smack dab in the midst, almost, of the midway and they plan to have a display in the front yard so it should be easily seen.

Ninety-three-year-old Arthur Frazier favored us with a visit the other day. His daughter Mildred Jording, her husband Dan and children Barbara and Bradley of Dayton as well as Mr. and Mrs. Otho Jording (Dan's parents) had been recent visitors.

At the same time his sons Ray and Thurman Frazier of Angola, Ind. were here for the weekend, granddaughter Lisa and her hubby from Marion (grandpa couldn't quite recall names) were also here as were Helen Shoemaker and her husband from Circleville.

Helen comes frequently to prepare foodstuffs for her dad. Mr. Frazier had received a letter the day he was here from a niece in Columbus that related the message that his brother Ross Frazier had suffered a stroke and was a patient at Doctors North Hospital in Columbus.

Proof of the pudding that Pickaway County folks are the "salt of the earth" came this past weekend. Being very much a victim of festival frenzy fever, I completely forgot my responsibility of picking up flowers on Saturday for the church on Sunday. I had had the good sense to order them Friday but Saturday was another whole barrel of apples.

An early Sunday morning phone call got me out of my dilemma when the proprietor so kindly agreed to unlock the shop for me to get the flowers. How very nice and kind this was, just wonderful really! My grateful thanks to the Ullmans.

It was my weekend to pull embarrassing goofs, I guess, because Friday evening caught me in a rather "red-faced" situation but I will spare you the details (mainly because I don't want anyone other than those involved to know about my bad manners).

Other than that incident it was pleasant to chat with Dow West and his lovely Charlotte, also the Bill Neff couple of near Five Points, the Howells and the Thomersons, Joan Reid, Harry Morris, Bud and Mary Skinner, Herman and Garnet Porter who were in the company of Geraldine "Dean" McCafferty and the Clyde Michaels (Mr. Michaels has improved so much from a recent illness).

Mary Alice Greenwood, Edna Newhouse and myself were among those who enjoyed a sumptuous luncheon at Wardell Party Home this Monday. The occasion marked the 27th birthday of the Pickaway County Women's GOP Club and of course the 200th birthday of our country... I couldn't begin to name all the lovely and wonderful ladies I had the pleasure of meeting for the first time but I am hopeful I will meet each of them many more times. Truly delightful, each one.

At such a happy and exciting time it really gives me the blues to report to you that Janet Stauffer Lovett (Mrs. David) is a patient in Riverside Hospital, Columbus, Room 518 receiving treatment and therapy for serious injuries suffered in an auto accident on March 18 near the Lovett home at The Plains which is near Athens.

Young T.D. Lovett will spend the weekend with grandparents Esther and Charley Picklesimer as is his custom during festival time.

Hattie Anderson remains a patient at Berger Hospital and celebrated her birthday today (Tuesday). I slipped up and didn't get a card in the mail to her but I surely did have her on my mind today so perhaps that will pay the bill just a little. Hurry home to us dear neighbor!

Cancer Crusade

Well, our young people have done it again! Monday night was cancer crusade time in our village and the canvassers did a fine job covering the town. Collecting over $150 were Brian Wisecup, Jeff Snyder, Dena Galloway, Phoebe Shaw, Brenda Galloway, Amy Easterday, Sheryl Horch, Jaynell Jordan, Sheryl Cox, Faith Ann Picklesimer, Crystal Metzger, and Lori Metzger.

I can never sing the praises of these volunteers loud enough nor long enough. They deserve a pat on the back from all of us. Hats off to each of them for their community interest. We are proud as punch of our young folks. They are super neat-o!

Emma Puffinbarger was handed a terrific birthday surprise this evening by members of her family. A complete carry-in dinner, birthday cake, candles and the works. Harry and Emma have not been too well lately so having a party is as good as any medicine might be, I'll bet. Who doesn't love a birthday party? And Emma and Harry also love family, friends and people.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care.

Think About: Gracious! is there anything else to think about other than the super neat Deercreek Dam Days Festival. A real quality festival. Come and discover for yourself how hard we work for your pleasure. Remember... all amusement rides only 35 cents.

Alger Popular

NATICK, Mass. (AP) — Horatio Alger Jr. is very much in vogue on university campuses, according to Max Goldberg, president emeritus of the Horatio Alger Society.

"Students are now reading the Alger books as part of sociology courses," Goldberg said. "Just a couple of weeks ago, I had a college student from Ohio visit me. His thesis is going to be on Alger."

"Our Horatio Alger Society now has thousands of members," Goldberg added. "We opened a branch in London, and we've got one in the works for Tokyo."

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Care needed in travel, finances and job matters. There's a tendency toward carelessness which could lead to needless errors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Demonstrate your abilities in a tactful manner, bearing in mind that some may not see eye to eye with you. In the long run, however, they WILL come around to your point of view.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Present influences indicate some obstacles — not insurmountable, but annoying unless you retain your sense of humor — AND patience.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Anchor to a well-organized program. Do not expose yourself to needless precarious action, or make foolish compromises, to be later regretted. Head up!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You should have new ambition and incentive under day's excellent influences. An unexpected business transaction could prove highly profitable.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Not much planetary help here, so day is practically your own to mold. Try to conclude long-term agreements if any are pending. Stars are generous in that respect.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with great artistry, a fine mind and a willingness to work hard to reach your goals. You are a person of high ideals, with built-in magnetism and a strong feeling for tradition. However, you incline towards stubbornness and your extremist attitudes often lead others to find you dogmatic. Try to curb these traits since they alienate others unnecessarily. You can achieve notable success as an artist, interior decorator, designer, singer, lecturer, musician or horticulturist.

American surgeon Robert Abbe (1851-1928) was a pioneer in the surgical use of radium.

NEW YORK (AP) — "The time I have left on the topside of this earth, I'm going to live it the best and happiest I know how." The words of a dying man, the Rev. Bryant, 56, the black pastor of a Baptist church.

"I prayed that the chemotherapy wouldn't work," The tearful, frustrated words of Harriet, whose husband, Bill is slowly dying. They have two sons, aged 8 and 10.

"Oh, feel the air! Know it." The joyous words of Sally, 46, as two ambulance attendants carry her outdoors to the sunshine. She's leaving the hospital for the last time, going home for the last time.

The Rev. Bryant, Bill and Sally died last year, all victims of cancer. But their insights and those of their families into the process of dying have been captured in an extraordinary documentary called "Dying."

Produced by WGBH in Boston and filmed over a two-year period by producer-director Michael Roemer, this program is scheduled for national broadcast on public TV tonight. We urge you to watch it.

Despite the grimness of "Dying," the treatment of the theme is unusually sensitive and compelling. It provides considerable reason for us to take another look at our own attitudes toward dying and death.

The show starts slowly with a young widow, identified only as Sandy, recounting her feelings when she learned her 29-year-old husband, Mark, a graduate student, had cancer and only five months to live, at most.

She says she was pregnant at the time. But the knowledge he had at least five months left, she adds, "was like a gift to me. We might see our second child born and maybe see the spring together."

Then, after Maynard Mack, a Yale professor and consultant on the show, explains its original premise and how it evolved into its final form, the documentary focuses on the lives of its three main subjects.

In examining the last months of the three Boston-area cancer victims studied in this 97-minute program, Roemer uses no narration and provides no information other than that supplied by those being filmed, plus the dates of his subjects' deaths.

Sally, her shaved head showing an ugly, fist-sized depression where surgeons tried to remove her brain cancer, is a portrait in warm courage and Yankee stoicism, even though at the start she recalls:

"Before I was sick, I was such a big, healthy redhead ... just having a wonderful time. And then — down, down, down."

Harriet, whose dying husband wears a hairpiece to cover scars left by an unsuccessful operation, is a study in torment, a woman who wants his suffering ended now, wants a chance to start anew, remarry, live a normal life with her sons.

The Rev. Mr. Bryant emerges as a cheerful, gutsy, dignified testament to faith. Told by his doctor he's doomed, he nods and softly says: "It's all right. We're goin' forward. Ain't a thing in the world a man can do in a case like that except put his trust in God ..."

According to archeologists, the earliest known ball court in the world has been found in the ancient Indian city of Tollan, 50 miles north of Mexico City.

FOR FRIDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): This day may be described as a duel between promise and performance. The effort expended and the direction taken will be the deciding factors. Think before acting!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A broad new concept of your job is in the making, which you should strive to understand. Consultation with persons who have bright, workable ideas could help change your strategies.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): The cool-headed approach in all matters will bring better results than the emotional one. Your fine skills and talents are due for recognition soon.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You will now face competition — expected and unexpected. You usually relish a challenge, but be careful not to under — or overestimate opponents.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Good solar influences continue. Aim for early accomplishment, planned in your usual orderly fashion, but do not reject the novel or the unfamiliar without due consideration.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A fruitful day indicated, but your returns may not be quite as great as you expect. Remain composed and ready to shift to a lower gear in expectations — for the present, at least.

Deputy Talks To Special Ed Classes

The Logan Elm High School special education classes will have a program this week featuring Deputy Bill Dountz, from the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department. Hewill speak to the students about law and order and tell them what they need to know to be good citizens in their community.

This series of programs has provided information vital to good community living. Next week, the final program to be presented will discuss the topic of family planning with Mrs. William Myers and Mrs. Dennis Blecha in charge.

Recently, Asa Elsea, General Manager of Elsea Incorporated, was the featured speaker at the Westfall High School special education class. His program was a discussion of mobile home living. Bill Mundy, of Harold Mundy Pontiac, spoke to the same class at Westfall High School last week about buying new or used automobiles.

Pay Raises Approved For Leaders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House defeated, then reconsidered and sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes on Wednesday a bill to raise the pay of certain leaders omitted from the assembly's last pay raise bill two years ago.

The final vote was 51-43, just one more than the 50 required for passage in the 99-member chamber. Earlier in the day, the bill had received a 49-47 tally. House sponsor Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-57 Youngstown, arranged to have the bill reconsidered due to the initial absence of some of the bill's backers, he said.

Debate on the measure was brief, with Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, making the lone opposition speech. "This isn't the time, in the fading days of the session, to be raising the pay of any legislator," Norris argued.

The Franklin County Republican disputed a claim by Gilmartin that the increases, affecting three leadership positions held by Democrats, would not take effect until after leadership organization in the 112th General Assembly next January.

He contended that because leaders are elected by members of the legislature, and not directly by the people, a constitutional prohibition against receiving increases during fixed terms doesn't apply in this case.

The question was left unresolved, at least temporarily.

Affected by the measure are the Senate majority whip, whose salary goes from $17,500 annually to $20,000; the assistant majority floor leader of the House, from $17,500 to $19,000, and the minority whip of the Senate, from $18,250 to $18,500.

Respectively, those currently holding these positions are Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown; Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, and Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, R-4 Middletown.

Nonleadership lawmakers receive $17,500 a year.

Record Turkey Harvest Reported

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio hunters harvested a record number of 48 turkeys this week in the first two days of the 1976 turkey hunting season, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

The department said if weather improves the total take for the 12-day season ending May 7 could exceed the record of 95 turkeys taken in 1975.

Turkey hunting is permitted in 14 of Ohio's 88 counties.
